Jagvir Singh has nineteen years of business legal experience, first as an indirect tax officer with the Ministry of Finance and later, as a corporate lawyer. Jagvir has a very wide industry experience and has been exposed to almost each and every aspect of a modern manufacturing or service providing company. During his last few years with the government, Jagvir was a part of few very important teams constituted by the Government, in coordination with the Canadian Government, to review and re-engineer the procedural and substantive aspects of Central VAT laws of India. The process finally entailed the complete automation of the revenue department.

Jagvir specializes in Corporate and Commercial Laws which include Company Law, Securities Regulations, Takeover of Listed Companies, Competition Law, Project Finance; Power Projects, WTO, Business Contracts, M & A, Inward and Outward investments and joint ventures. Additionally, Indirect tax still remains a forte and Jagvir has conceptual capabilities in IP issues as well.

Jagvir has extensively advised on and participated in diverse corporate transactions including large consortium project finances, private equity, acquisitions, joint ventures and takeovers of domestic and cross border nature, both in India and abroad.

Jagvir had Company Law, Securities and Takeover Regulations and International Trade and Economic Laws as LLM courses at University of London.
